Superb Styles in Women's Suits and Coats

We are so alive to the services which our Outfitting section, Second floor, may perform for every woman at this season, that we feel that we cannot emphasize its resources too emphatically. It is well within the limitations of facts for us to state that never have we reached the latter part of October with resources which gave more complete selection in suits and coats than is presented here at the present time.

Whatever may be the particular style of suit or outer garment desired, whatever the preference may be for this material or that, for one shade or another, whatever may be the price you feel that you can afford to pay, you owe it to yourself to become fully acquainted with Second floor offerings before meeting appareling needs of fall and winter.

There are very attractively tailored suits here, and no small selection of them, at $14.85 and $19.50.

From these prices up there are suits on terms to meet the requirements of everyone—$22.50, $25, $27.50, $29.50, $33.50, $35, $37.50, up to $65.00.

CHANGE ATHLETICS.

Amateur Athletic Officers Would Let Classes Compete.

New York, Oct. 24.—Gustavus T. Kirby, president of the Amateur Athletic union, is in favor of a more liberal policy on the part of the governing body in amateur sports as regards competitions between amateurs and professionals. He declared in a recent address just made public here.

President Kirby announced himself as favoring permission for amateurs to take part in competitions with "young men being trained for the profession of making amateur sportsmen, such as, for example, the Springfield Training school."

"I also," he continues, "believe that under special circumstances, competition should be permitted between individuals where one is an amateur and the other a professional, such as for example a match race between John Paul Jones, the amateur mile record holder, and a professional who believes he can run the distance faster. I believe, however, that no such competition should be permitted without the sanction of the Amateur Athletic union and that that sanction should withhold where the competition is for other than a prize and that if gate money is charged the money so received should go to none other than the Amateur Athletic union."

FOOTBALL GAMES

Larger Colleges Will Play First Important Games.

Princeton and Dartmouth Contest Big Game in East.

GRIDIRON WARRIORS IN TRIM

Pennsylvania and Carlisle Is Another Big Contest.

Cornell Expects to Beat Pittsburgh—Kansas Men There.

New York, Oct. 24.—None of the larger eastern colleges have big football games in prospect for tomorrow for the first time this season, although Yale and Harvard will be still engaged in the so-called tuning up process of secondary contests. One of the closest fought battles of the day may be expected at Princeton. Twenty-seven members of the Dartmouth squad arrived in New York from New Hampshire early today on their way to meet the Tigers, planning to put in the late afternoon here in final practice on Ohio field at New York university. Five hundred undergraduates who followed the Dartmouth quad down from Hanover seemed more enthusiastic than on previous journeys to Princeton, confident that the Green stands a better chance this year than in the past of defeating Princeton.

Coach Cavanaugh said today that with the exception of Ambrose and Snow his team was in the pink of condition and well fit for a great tussle. He admitted his team lacked weight but he said it could take all kinds of punishment and had the sustaining powers of a much heavier squad.

At Princeton the problem of dealing with the forward pass plays of the Hanover team engaged Coach Andrews in a light drill yesterday afternoon. The team showed improvement, play in the work of Gile, who may be seen tomorrow at either left guard or tackle. Lamberton and some of the other regulars were given a rest, taking no risk of injuries before Saturday's game, for the Tigers admit they are none too sure of their strength. Trainer Keene Fitz Patrick thinks his men are in fine condition and ready to give a good account of themselves.

The University of Pennsylvania against the Carlisle Indians is also expected to prove an even struggle tomorrow. The Pennsylvanians lined up against a second eleven training in the new kinks of the Indian formation yesterday afternoon and broke them up with the utmost ease. Meanwhile, at the Carlisle school, Coach Warner with the use of an ingenious stratagem formed his men into a strenuous afternoon's practice. His new idea was a mannikin drill, which proved interesting to the few onlookers.

The idea was to fill out a team opposite the varsity, instructing it not to resist the onslaught of the regulars. The men went through the general defensive formation but refrained from coming forcibly into contact with the varsity players. This exercise, which Warner thought very beneficial, was used to save the bruised Indians from further hurts.

At New Haven some slight apprehension is said to be felt over the game with Washington and Jefferson after the latter's 17 to 6 victory over Pennsylvania state. Generally, however, this is not taken seriously and those who saw the Varsity playing at top speed against the scrubs yesterday were confident that the team was in form to deal with the visitors, however hard opponents they might prove to be. One of the latest sources of enthusiasm in the Yale camp is the work of Benjamin Avery at left end. In yesterday's practice he handled Wilson's forward pass from the 15 yard line for the only score of the afternoon.

Harvard Has Little Fear

On the basis of the Washington and Jefferson score against Pennsylvania state college, Harvard in meeting the latter tomorrow should have less to fear than Yale, engaged with the former. The crimson players worked with a vengeance in final practice for the game yesterday afternoon. The scrimmage lasted forty minutes with mixed lineups and with honors even between the opposing squads. Captain Storer played his first game at end and made such a good showing that it seemed likely he would be kept in that position. Gillman, who took his place at tackle, showed up strongly and probably will be kept in Storer's old place.

A source of gloom in the Harvard camp is the announcement that John Milholland will give up football at the request of his father. Milholland had proved a good end and a good kicker and his loss is likely to be felt. At West Point there has been no let up all week in development of the Army eleven with the Army-Navy contest in distant view and the Cadets expected to beat Tufts tomorrow, though they have suffered a considerable setback from injuries and weakness was shown in last Saturday's contest with Colgate.

At Ithaca the Cornell team is said to have emerged from long slump as shown last Saturday in the game against Bucknell, and in brand new uniforms they will descend upon Pittsburgh tomorrow looking for a victory. Williamson, one of the biggest men in the line, however, is still suffering from a kick in the arm and probably will not be able to play tomorrow.

TOURISTS AT ST. JOE.

Fans Will Entertain Them While in City.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 24.—When the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox reach St. Joseph tomorrow morning to play one game of their schedule for the trip around the world, they will be met at the Union station with automobiles and a brass band and will be taken for a tour of the city. Following that they will be taken to a hotel where a luncheon will be given them by the St. Joseph Boosters' club.

A dinner has been arranged for the players after the game.

CHICAGO NOT READY.

Team Not in Condition to Meet Purdue Eleven.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Chicago's eleven is not prepared for tomorrow's game with Purdue in the opinion of Coach Stagg. Following that they will be taken to a hotel where a luncheon will be given them by the St. Joseph Boosters' club.

Neither the defense nor the offense is properly worked up to meet a team which is playing in the form that Coach Smith's men are playing, said Stagg.
